WHAT OTHERS SAY ABOUT THIS PROGRAM

PROFESSIONAL AFFILIATIONS

Dr. Allomong's Functional Methylation Technique is one of the most innovative, easy to understand and effective programs I have ever seen. He couples his extensive clinical knowledge with comprehensive, genetic reporting that allows for a seamless integration of testing and application.

TRADITIONAL FUNCTIONAL MEDICINE PRACTITIONER – NO MUSCLE TESTING TRAINING OR USE IN PRACTICE

This technique and entire system of the Functional Methyl Technique developed by Dr. Allomong is one of the most thorough and well clinically integrated programs I have seen in the last 20 years of practice. The content of correlation between genetic SNP's, biochemical markers tested in labs and the nutrient alone is worth every penny. I could spend a lifetime recreating this knowledge base and still not have captured the reproducibility and consistent results garnered from applying this system. Since I do not have any muscle testing training or experience, while the technique offers very simple methodology, it just is not my style and I have been able to see amazing results with how I have integrated the information. I learn more every class and will keep listening and am inspired to even consider learning or applying muscle testing for the benefit of the quick feedback.

SEASONED AK PRACTITIONER

I had another patient success after applying the FM Testing. She had been a long-term maintenance patient wanting to get pregnant for her second child. They had been trying for about a year and it took years to conceive their first baby. I suggested FMT and she agreed. Upon her 3 week follow up she showed me the dramatic changes on stress levels recorded from another product dropping at least 75%. On her next visit she announced that she was pregnant. I'm super excited about what I have learned from your teaching and I am continuing to apply the knowledge to my best ability.

STUDENT

I didn't really learn muscle testing in school; in fact I had planned to continue my education from IFM and additional courses. Being introduced to Dr. Allomong and his technique changed my life, and I am so grateful to be able to start practicing with this technique from DAY 1. I was able to easily incorporate the muscle testing demonstrated by Dr. Allomong to maximize the immediate feedback offered from this technique. I am sure there is more to learn with neurophysiology of muscle testing, but all I can say is it works and patients love it.

FAQs

Q: I already use a different methylation technique, how is this different?

A: As with any technique, Functional Methylation offers a collection of knowledge, skill and integration at various clinical levels. In the process of developing the program, Dr. Allomong was aware of the many systems and what applications were the most clinically effective. In every aspect of one's career, the individual use of techniques that work is what makes all the different methods so great. One of Dr. Allomong's greatest strengths is the love of this technique that literally has morphed into a profound clinical tool that meets the practitioner in their individual style and integration of the entire program.

Q: I am an experienced muscle tester and already use similar aspects of this testing in practice, how is this different?

A: Being familiar with any neurophysiological feedback is an incredible tool. Experience with sensitivity in muscle testing will add value to being able to quickly integrate this technique into your already established routine. Functional Methylation Technique is not intended to replace any one specific technique, rather to enhance results with refinement and greater understanding of the genetic components and corresponding physiological and biochemical processes.

Q: I do not muscle test nor do I plan to, why is this course applicable to my practice?

A: There is NO requirement to be a muscle tester nor have Applied Kinesiology experience or even learn muscle testing to apply this technique. What is important is that some form of feedback is used to assess the effectiveness of the knowledge and clinical treatment plans applied. This is commonly done with lab testing or other measures of progress. Questionnaires and thorough clinical history add to the discernment in using the Functional Methylation guides.

Q: What genetic test and resources do you use with this technique?

A: Currently most practitioners use Acentry.com. The "raw data" from the DNA test is then used to generate a clinical report through FHEval that offers a highly integrated understanding of the individual information with nutrient and lifestyle support. While the program is not required to use the Functional Methylation Technique, it oftentimes brings awareness to specific genetic patterns or even individual SNP's offering a greater understanding of the correlation between lab analysis and supplement support. FHEval (www.FHEcloud.com) offers a 3-month FREE trial and is billed monthly after the trial.

Q: Where can I get started now?

A: Your Nutri-West distributor can guide you through all the resources needed both in getting started and integrating the technique and supplements into practice. With such a comprehensive program, it often takes time to layer in the different support measures and adapt to your personal practice style. We are glad to help guide you and Dr. Allomong's team is a great support to getting everything you need to use this technique and start getting results today.
